Canada and U. S. Announce Unity Against Attack

COLOHADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Military officers charged with the aerial defense of the North American continent are convinced that lack of unified command and rivalry among service branches are endangering continental safety.

These officers run the North American Air Defense Command, which has the responsibility of protecting the continent from enemy air attack.

NORAD is composed of elements from the U.S. Air Force, Navy and Army, in addition to the Royal Canadian Air Force.

One of its most vital jobs is to act as the eyes for the Strategic Air Command. SAC does not maintain its own warning system and depends on NORAD for information that an enemy attack is threatened. Then the massive retaliatory air arm would go into action.

But NORAD's high officers feel that inter-service rivalry and a lack of authority vested in NORAD commander Gen. Earle E. Partridge seriously jeopardizes the function and mission of the organization. NORAD stands by itself and is attached to no particular branch of the service.

One ranking officer who declined to be identified, said: "Sure, Gen. Partridge is commander but he can't even hire and fire the field officers assigned to his outfit. They don't even have to tell him what they are doing with their units."

This means, the officer said, that an Army, Navy or Air Force commander in charge of a unit attached to NORAD could reduce the number of weapons, equipment or men without advising or consulting NORAD.

Newspapers in Lima Critical of Nixon Riot

LIMA, Peru. — The stones and spit which greeted U. S. Vice President Richard Nixon at Peru's oldest university brought down condemnation today on the Peruvian government from one of the capital's chief newspapers.

It appeared the violence at San Marcos University Thursday night might put a stop to Nixon's face-to-face attempts to convince Latin American students the United States is a better bet than the Soviet Union.

A round-table conference with Peruvian students and labor leaders — scheduled after Nixon's arrival later today in Quito — was cancelled.

Sources close to the vice president said in the three nations remaining on his tour he might abandon his custom of visiting the leading universities to talk with students.

Nixon had been warned that his visit to the Lima university might result in leftist-inspired violence but he went ahead. A rock grazed his neck, and a U. S. Secret Service agent had a tooth chipped by a flying stone as students spat on the party and jeered "Nixon get out."

Nixon shouted back: "Don't you want to have facts?" but the mob shouted him down and he left for Lima's Catholic University to meet with students there.

As Nixon returned to his hotel on foot, another group demonstrated against him.

The outburst against the vice president shook Lima. The influential newspaper, El Comercio said the police should have taken steps to prevent the outbreaks.

Opposition papers already had criticized the government for failing to prevent similar — but milder — anti-Nixon demonstrations the day before.

Nixon made no official fuss but Foreign Minister Raul Porras quickly expressed official and personal apologies. The government also replaced the wreath Nixon had laid on the monument to South American patriot Jose San Martin, which demonstrators tore down.

Nixon told newsmen he was deeply moved by apologies he received privately from Peruvians. When he left his hotel later, crowds applauded him as if to make amends.

Lima police reportedly got orders to round up Communists responsible for the demonstrations. Informal sources said the nation's largest expected student member for joining the mob.

Senator's Car Injures Woman

CLEVELAND, Ohio — A woman pedestrian was injured slightly in downtown Cleveland today by Sen. Frank J. Lausche's automobile.

Miss Mary Anne Weaver, 54, when the slowly moving automobile bumped her on Prospect Ave. near 2nd St. At the senator's insistence she was taken to Charity Hospital for an examination.

Lausche said his brakes apparently slipped. He had been to Cleveland Hopkins Municipal Airport to pick up his wife, Jane.

Justices Were Guests, Stars Steal Show

By FRANCES LEWINE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staid Supreme Court Justices were guests of honor but nine Broadway musical comedy stars stole the show at the White House Thursday night.

They belted out show tunes in the formality of the East Ballroom.

President Eisenhower took special delight in a rendition of the tormented "Steam Heat," a song-and-dance routine from the show "Pajama Game."

The occasion was a formal state dinner for the court—an annual affair—followed by a musicale.

In all, a few more than 200 persons saw the star-studded performance—for which the cast left their Broadway show roles to understandings for the night.

This drew some criticism from Washington Post drama critic Richard L. Coe, who thought the featured players were advertised as appearing on Broadway when they actually were in Washington.

"Oh boy! How many people in a lifetime ever get an opportunity to play the 'White House'?" was the answer of Harold S. Prince who, with Robert E. Griffith, had arranged the program. They are producers of "West Side Story."

and they brought along the show's young singers from the show, Carol Lawrence and Larry Kaye. Eddie Hodges, 11, who sang a number he does in "The Music Man" got some special attention from the President.

Eisenhower stored Eddie toward the food, but cautioned the youngster to stay away from the bubbly champagne the older guests were having. For Eddie, Eisenhower sent for some ginger ale.

Thelma Ritter, who did a number with Cameron Prud'Homme from their show "Now Girl in Town," said she was thrilled but couldn't get used to playing with all the house lights on.

And Pat Stanley of "Blue Denim" who did the "Steam Heat" number with Gabeau and Frank Debas of "Bells are Ringing," said it was much worse than an opening night in the theater. She was so nervous, she said she did not dare look at the President.

Sally Ann Howes, current star of "My Fair Lady" completed the cast for the show.

The dinner, with 61 guests, ended the 1958 White House season. It was one of six official state dinners on the social calendar.

Video Tape Eases Problem for Television

NEW YORK (AP) — Video tape, the most revolutionary technical advance in television in several years, has eased the problem of time for the industry's programming.

Viewers in nearly all sections of the country are having dramatic evidence if it in this spring season. If they're used to looking at a program at 8 o'clock in the evening, they're continuing to see it at that time whether their local station is on standard or daylight time.

"Magic? Here is a simplified explanation of it."

Television in tape is a method whereby moving pictures are recorded and can be instantly played back without using film.

Nearly everybody is familiar with tape recorders whereby sound waves are recorded and can be re-played immediately. In video, tape both image and sound waves are recorded with the use of film.

As an example, a live show originating in New York at 8 p.m. would be seen in California at 8 p.m. under straight live telecast conditions — an hour which would sit find many Californians watching their TV sets.

By using the new tape method the time-consuming step of developing the film is avoided. Tape can play back a program in five minutes or five days.

All three television networks are now employing it.

Back Row, left to right — Terrell Cornelius, Mamie Caulder (deceased); Lois McMath (Mrs. John Green); Kate Scott Wingfield (Mrs. R. L. Gosnell); Margaret Simms (Mrs. W. F. McDonald); Miss Frances Dawitt, class sponsor; George Connally; John Vesey; Sally Murphy (Mrs. W. F. Broening); Elizabeth H. (Bess) Walker (deceased); and Ed Hervey, Calvin Mebane Allen missed being in the picture as he was getting a glass of water for one of the girls.

This was the first organized outing of Hope High school seniors — and established the annual excursion which is being carried out this very day.

The original photograph belonged to the late L. B. Breed and was printed the first time in the Star's special edition of Thursday, Sept. 15, 1955, on the opening of Hempstead Memorial Hospital. The original photo could not be found. Thus the reproduction in the 1955 newspaper was re-photographed, re-plated and re-printed in today's issue.

By Mary Anita Laseter

Senior Day! These magic words describe the celebration of the '38 graduating class of Hope High School this tenth of May.

This is the 47th class from Hope to have such an observance, and the group is spending the day in Hot Springs. However, the first Senior Day was held right here in Hope.

It was to have been an April Fool's Day occasion, but since the first of April came on Saturday that year, Senior Day was held on March 31st.

The events of the day were recorded in the May, 1911, Commencement Number of "The Echo," then published each month by the Victorian and Lee Literary Societies at H. H. S.

In an article entitled "Seniors April Joke," Gladine Bennett (Mrs. G. B. Morris) explained that the day was begun promptly at eight-thirty when the entire class marched in a body to school, "furnishing to the faculty a surprise as well as an amusing sight."

Whether "an amusing sight" was the dress of the students or the surprise of the faculty is left in reasonable doubt, but it was definitely a unique April Fool's joke.

As for the students, "the girls were attired in pinafore, aprons, bonnets to match, hair curled with a bow of ribbon, book satchel and lunch baskets."

The boys wore overalls, haysacks and jumpers, the red bandana handkerchief around their necks completing the costume.

Lunch was spread on the campus, and in the afternoon the 28 seniors rode all over town in a "float" obtained as the result of the "thoughtfulness of our dear senior boys."

While riding on the "float," which was a hay wagon the students sang songs, gave school yells, ate ice cream cones, and had a thoroughly enjoyable time.

"When they came to Shipley's Studio," they had several views taken with the camera, which will be appreciated more in the days to come than at present."

The truth of that statement is proved by the appearance of one such "view" in today's paper.

Since the beginning of Senior Day at Hope High School, the size, the type, and the location of the celebration have been changed. But the chief ingredient — youthfulness — remains the same.

The 94 Hope seniors of today and seniors for the past 45 years are grateful to the class of 1911 for having started what has become a local tradition — Senior Day.

Auto Changes Likely to Be Very Few

By DAVID J. WILKIE

Associated Press Auto Editor

DETROIT (AP) — The 1959 autos, which may reach the market somewhat earlier than usual this year, will have broad styling changes, engineering changes will not be of major proportions.

This is indicated in commitments made to suppliers of manufacturers. There will be larger windshield and rear window.

There will be more body changes. Some cars will be longer. Barring unexpected changes in planning, the only new shorter length car to appear will be Studebaker-Packard's projected new low price car.

American Motors only auto maker to sell more cars this year than in comparable 1957 will continue its 108-inch and 100-inch wheelbase Rambler models. It has an 85-inch wheelbase model in its imported Metropolitan.

What 1959 price tags will show is anybody's guess. It has been said the car makers would try to avoid price advances. But they already have served notice higher wages will mean increased prices.

When Edward T. Rugsdiele, Buick general manager, made that statement in a Boston address a few weeks ago, it was accepted he was speaking on behalf of the entire General Motors group. If GM advances prices, the remainder of the industry probably will also increase them.

Higher prices may have been a factor in the tightening up of consumer demand. But economic uncertainty probably is the major factor. Some analysts have said dissatisfaction with 1958 model cars also was a consideration.

Industry spokesmen assert that the surge in small car sales had its beginning in a period of high prosperity and full employment.

Wheat Crop Placed at Million Bushels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's winter wheat crop at 1,009,754,000 bushels.

This estimate is 48,118,000 bushels more than last month's forecast of 963,636,000 — compares with 707,201,000 produced last year and 849,040,000 for the 10-year 1947-56 average.

No forecast was given for spring wheat, but officials have said a crop of 225 million bushels appears possible. This would give a combined winter and spring production of 1,234,754,000 compared with 947,000,000 last year and 1,030,000,000 for the 10-year average.

The department estimated the yield of winter wheat will average 24 bushels per harvested acre compared with 22.4 last year and 18.9 of the 10-year average.

The acreage to be harvested was estimated at 42,125,000 acres compared with 31,613,000 last year and 45,108,900 for the 10-year average. The percentage of the seeded acreage not expected to be harvested for grain was forecast at 4.1 compared with 15.2 last year and 16 for the 10-year average.

Ex-Diplomat Davies Dies at Age of 81

The former diplomat was 81. Last December, Davies asked the Federal District Court to name a Washington bank as conservator of his property.

In a petition filed with the court, Davies said he was unable to care for his property himself because of his physical incapacity and age.

Although an avowed capitalist, Davies got along well with the late Soviet dictator Josef Stalin during his service as ambassador and was the first foreign envoy to have a personal interview with the Soviet leader in 1938.

Davies first became active in national politics as a Western campaign manager for Woodrow Wilson in the 1912 election. He served under Wilson as U. S. commissioner of corporations and was the first chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, serving from 1914 to 1918.

He left that post to run as a Democrat for senator in Wisconsin, but was defeated. In 1919, he was an economic adviser to Wilson at the Versailles conference.

Between public assignments, Davies practiced law in the Washington firm of Davies, Richberg, Tydings and Landis, and was identified with the firm until his death. He specialized in international and corporation law.

Born Nov. 20, 1876, Davies received his law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1907.

He was first married in 1902 to Emeline Knight of Madison, Wis., but the marriage ended in a divorce.

Later he was married to Mrs. Marjorie Merriweather Post, heiress to a breakfast cereal fortune. She divorced him in 1955, after 20 years of marriage, charging mental cruelty. She lives in Washington.

Davies is survived also by three daughters, Mrs. Millard E. Tydings, wife of the former Maryland senator; Mrs. E. Fontaine Brown, wife of a Washington attorney; and Mrs. Robert L. Grosjean, now with her husband in Hamburg, Germany.

Brazil Railmen Fired After Disaster

RIO DE JANEIRO — President Juscelino Kubitschek today fired three top railroad officials after a head-on collision of two trains killed at least 121 persons Thursday night. It was the second major disaster in two months on the government railroad.

Hospital authorities said at least 40 other persons were in critical condition among about 900 injured. All victims were believed to be Brazilians.

The railroad said the two trains, carrying 2,400 passengers, crashed head on. Officials reported earlier that one train plowed into the rear of the other.

A railroad spokesman said the engineer of a northbound commuter train disregarded signals and entered the wrong track and hit the southbound train near Rio de Janeiro.

Kubitschek fired the acting superintendent and two directors of the railway, the Central de Brasil.

Sewing and Talking Go Hand in Hand

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah (AP) — Sewing and talking go together, a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board said today.

With that observation, examiner Wallace E. Royster dismissed contentions by management that Eldon Hunsaker was discharged by the American Sportsware Co. for talking too much. He said she was fired for being a supporter of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, AFL-CIO.

The plant has about 100 non-union cutters and sewers, mostly women and is managed by Oscar and Herman Grunig.

Royster admitted the Grunigs had their problems with the women employees.

"Some of the women were inventive talkers," he said in his written report to the NLRB, "some, I suppose, rapid listeners, and some had no talent for either part." He said Mrs. Hunsaker was one of the talkers.

Periodically when it seemed that sewing might become a secondary consideration to the employees, Herman Grunig would shut down the power, stopping the machines, and tell the workers that their conversations must be curtailed. This would bring about the desired result for a time, but inevitably it would become necessary to repeat the plea," Royster said.

"The casual remark or quick comment created no problem," he said, "for the women could handle that and still push material through the machines, but beyond that, if interest was aroused, it could be satisfied only by stopping the machine and this stopped production."

Despite this, Royster said management had been tolerant about the talking and evidence at hearings showed that Mrs. Hunsaker was a valued employee for five years. He said he believes she was fired because the Grunigs thought she was using her gift for conversation to persuade others to support the union.

Royster recommended that the company be ordered to offer Mrs. Hunsaker immediately re-employment at her old position and that she be awarded back pay to Nov. 27, 1957, the day she was dismissed.

Slayer Takes Job at a Photographer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Murder defendant Charles Starkweather today took a light swing at a photographer and knocked him off balance.

Ray Carnay, a station KIOA, Des Moines, Iowa, squatted outside the courtroom door or a closeup flash picture of the youth being led out.

Carnay said that as Starkweather walked by he swung his free left arm at the camera burning it into Carnay's forehead and knocking the photographer off balance. Carnay was not hurt.

They Boo, But the Latins Want That U.S. Dollar

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — The stoning and spitting inflicted on Vice President Nixon in Peru Thursday was the climax to a series of unpleasant situations in every one of the five Latin-American countries he has visited.

No doubt the Soviet Union will have a propaganda field day with what's happened to him.

The antagonism he has encountered was perhaps in great measure Communist-inspired. But it would be to easy and comfortable to think the Reds did it all. Nixon himself said "there is a very considerable lack of understanding" in Latin America about United States policies and motives. Why? Perhaps a congressional investigation will attempt to get answers.

In all five countries he has visited, Nixon has received requests — direct or indirect — for more

Highest Flyer Got Airsick on First Trip

By GENE HANDSAKER
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world's new highest-flying airman — nicknamed Scampy after a boyhood flight — got airsick on his first plane ride.

Air Force Maj. Howard Carroll Johnson flew a Lockheed F104 Starfighter Wednesday to an altitude of 17,280 miles — a new mark for ground-takeoff flying.

Only experimental planes released from mother craft have gone higher.

Asked Thursday how he felt preparing for his record assault, Johnson laughed back to his high school football days and said: "Like a guy in the safety position with some guy kicking the ball and 60,000 people watching."

Johnson, 38, has green eyes, a ruddy complexion, a strong chin and curly black hair. He stands 5 feet 8 and weighs 170.

He was born in Knoxville, Tenn. The family moved to Louisville, Ky., when Johnson, an only child, was 10. His late father was a bookkeeper for the Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

He worked as a messenger boy and typist while attending the university of Louisville. He majored in English literature but had no career in mind. In college he met brown-haired Paris Jean Holder, of Louisville, whom he later married. They live in Novato, Calif., with their children, Theodore, 10, and Carol, 8.

Johnson used to watch planes flying at the old Army Air Corps base in Louisville. Several university classmates quit to join the corps and he followed suit. His first plane ride was in the service.

After a few flinches in primary training at Ballinger, Tex., he found that the airlessness disappeared when he was at the center.

Fire Destroys Apt. House On Second St.

Fire of undetermined origin swept through the Black apartment on East second street early this morning, destroying just about everything. The fire started in the rear of the building around 1 a. m.

Living in the four apartments were Mrs. A. B. Spraggins, and Mrs. Beulah Hays downstairs with Mr. and Mrs. Al Williams and Herbert Thomas living upstairs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Westbrook of Hope were driving past the apartment house, saw the smoke and flames already coming out. Westbrook ran in the house, shouted to wake up the occupants, then ran across the street to the fire department and woke them.

Four negro boys were passing just after that. Sylvester Hicks, Henry Reed, Charles Johnson and Nathaniel Holyfield and saw Mrs. Hays at the window. The boys tore the screens off the windows and helped Mrs. Hays to safety to a house across the street.

The fire was finally brought under control about 2:30 a. m. and firemen were still wetting down at 4 a. m. this morning.

The building is owned by Vincent Foster and was partially covered by insurance.

Treasury Dept. Man Against Tax Reduction

BOSTON — The Treasury Department's No. 2 man, Undersecretary Julian B. Baird, questioned today whether cutting income taxes would be a very effective way of fighting the recession.

Baird apparently reflected stiffening administration resistance to such proposals. He didn't say he opposes reducing individual income taxes. But the argument he marshaled was on the negative side.

"The Treasury official also said the administration will have to make a new review of debt limit requirements before the adjournment of Congress."

The debt limit was temporarily raised to 280 billion dollars earlier this year from its permanent legal ceiling of 275 billion.

Baird, in a speech prepared for the 38th annual conference of Mutual Savings Banks, said the slump in tax revenues and increased spending for defense and other items will necessitate a second look at whether the higher debt ceiling will be adequate.

It is generally believed the administration will request a new limit in the limit early this summer, perhaps by as much as an additional 10 billion dollars.

Baird summed up his questioning approach to income tax cuts in these words:

"The very fact that the present downturn in business developed at a time when personal income was at the highest level in history would seem to indicate that many considerations other than the volume of spendable funds are involved."

This amounted to asking what good it would do to put more money into the hands of Americans who already have high incomes but haven't spent their funds in a way to halt the business slump.

Hacksaw Blades Found on Prisoner
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County deputy sheriffs reported today that they found two 6-inch hacksaw blades sewed into the clothing of a Negro prisoner charged with murder.

The defendant is Percy Seward, also known as "Three • Curd Monte."

Deputies said that when they delivered Seward to Tucker Prison Farm, a search revealed the blades.

Seward, who hasn't been tried, was transferred to the prison farm because he created disturbances in the Pulaski County jail and is court here.

He is accused of second degree murder in the slaying of another Negro. Trial is scheduled for May 28.

Highlights of News During Past Week

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent

The week's good and bad news on the international balance sheet. Foreign ministers in the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries agreed this week to continue negotiations with Soviet Russia for a summit conference on world issues.

They agreed also, however, that preparatory negotiations must give hope that settlements on important questions might be reached if the heads of governments meet.

Further, they agreed that summit conferences "are not the only way, or necessarily the best way, of conducting negotiations or reducing international tensions."

In this connection, the foreign ministers expressed hope that it still may be possible, despite persistent Russian refusals, to start "expert technical discussions" on "detailed measures on control over disarmament."

The meeting, which was held in Copenhagen, Denmark, marked a personal success for Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

Since the Russians started clamoring for a summit conference last December, Dulles has insisted there is no use holding one unless there is prospect of agreement on important issues.

Some other NATO foreign ministers, who wanted a conference on any terms, have now swung around to Dulles's viewpoint.

From Copenhagen, Dulles went to visit West Berlin. There, in a speech, he said the continued division of Berlin into West and East sectors — because of Russia's refusal to consent to German unification — "is a living exhibit of Soviet violation of international agreements."

"And your plight ought to teach the world that it is reckless to make concessions in reliance on Soviet promises merely because those promises are alluring," said Dulles.

France's cabinet crisis entered its fourth week since the National Assembly overthrew Premier Guy Mollet by rejecting his conciliatory North African program.

First Georges Bidault, who favors a tough policy toward the Algerian rebellion, then Rene Pleven, of the middle-of-the-road Resistance Party, tried to form a government.

Pleven appeared to be on the verge of success, after 15 days of negotiating for a coalition of middle-of-the-road and right-wing groups.

Then the moderate Radical Party withdrew because Pleven listed Andre Morice, representing the extreme right wing, as defense minister.

Britain's Conservative government faced a showdown over its policy of freezing wages as an anti-inflation measure.

Fifty thousand union men, operating Greater London's 8,400 buses, struck Monday to back up demands for pay increases.

Five hundred thousand railroad men — including those who operate the London underground — threatened to strike throughout the country.

Norrell told the hearing that the Army had not properly assigned patients to Army Navy.

"I am as much interested in the budget as anybody in the United States," he said, "but to see a great hospital that has done so much for the country simply wrecked and ruined, as you have just about done, general, I am hardly able to bear it or stand it."

"So?" he said. "I should've guessed that, too. Somebody have some insurance on him?"

I shook my head. "None on him. But Interventional insured the book he wrote. So that's what I'm after, Johnny, who is El Nariz?"

"So that's the reason for the gun?" he said. "Where'd you run into him?"

"I didn't — yet. He phoned me just before I came down here. Offered me a job first. When I refused, he didn't seem too friendly after that."

"How'd he know you were working on it?"

"He's been pulling up. Interventional and asking them if they were interested in information about Moreno. They just decided to do something about the manuscript and hired me today. He called again today and some junk about my myname and phone number. Who is he?"

"I don't know," he said. "I know a lot about him but I've never seen him and I've never talked to anyone who's seen him. Even Monica's friends here don't know who he is. I know that he's the chief assassin for the Monacan regime, but I can't prove that. I know, but also can't prove that he's killed six or seven people here in New York City. I'm pretty sure that he's the one who kidnapped Dr. Moreno. Now that you tell me he's back in the city he's probably

Charges Army Is Wrecking Spa Hospital

WASHINGTON — Rep. W. F. Norrell (D-Ark.) says he believes the Army has permitted the Army-Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., to be virtually "wrecked and ruined."

Norrell made his comment during an after-noon discussion of the Hot Springs hospital before a House Appropriations Subcommittee.

At the hearing were Army and Air Force officers and representatives of the Veterans Administration.

The hearings were not open to the press or public but a report of the committee sessions was made public today.

The Army has sought for several years to close Army-Navy Hospital, claiming it is not needed and that its patient load is low.

Through efforts of Norrell, who contends the patient load is what the Army hopes to make it, and Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) Congress to several years has insisted that the Army continue to operate the facility.

The committee hearing was devoted to a general discussion of the matter.

Witnesses included Maj. Gen. S. B. Hays, Army Surgeon General; Brig. Gen. John K. Culien of the Air Force, and Dr. Irvin J. Cohen of the Veterans Administration.

Various committee members took turns quizzing the officials on the matter.

Hays said closing of the hospital would result in a net saving to the Army of $340,000 the first year and $336,000 annually thereafter.

Dr. Cohen said the VA has 2,800 hospital beds in Arkansas and does not need the Hot Springs hospital. Likewise Gen. Culien said the Air Force "could not generate enough of a patient load to be able to use it economically."

Hays said the Army had approached the Public Health Service about using the hospital and "got one bite from them about a year ago but it fell through."

Norrell said he was shocked at some of the statements.

He contended that the Hot Springs hospital is the only general Army hospital between the Atlantic and Pacific Ocean areas except for one at Denver.

Hays, however, said the term "general" hospital was dropped several years ago and that the Army has other hospitals throughout the country.

Norrell likewise said he'd heard that the Air Force base at Little Rock has reserved 150 beds in the veterans hospital at Little Rock.

Gen. Culien said the load wasn't that heavy and later supplied information for the record to the effect that patients from the base at the VA hospital averaged 7.4 per day during 1957.

He said that in 1957 the Air Force sent 44 patients to Hot Springs, adding that they were cases were patients able to stand the trip and were "the nonemergency type case."

At another point Norrell contended that service men in the Hot Springs area had been transferred to hospitals elsewhere for treatment.

Hays said that "as far as I can determine, there has never been any restriction placed on admission of patients who want to come into the hospital."

In one specific case mentioned by Norrell, Hays said an Army sergeant had been sent to Brooke Army Hospital, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., to appear before a physical evaluation board since no such board existed at Army-Navy Hospital.

Norrell told the hearing that the Army had not properly assigned patients to Army Navy.

"I am as much interested in the budget as anybody in the United States," he said, "but to see a great hospital that has done so much for the country simply wrecked and ruined, as you have just about done, general, I am hardly able to bear it or stand it."

"So?" he said. "I should've guessed that, too. Somebody have some insurance on him?"

I shook my head. "None on him. But Interventional insured the book he wrote. So that's what I'm after, Johnny, who is El Nariz?"

"So that's the reason for the gun?" he said. "Where'd you run into him?"

"I didn't — yet. He phoned me just before I came down here. Offered me a job first. When I refused, he didn't seem too friendly after that."

"How'd he know you were working on it?"

"He's been pulling up. Interventional and asking them if they were interested in information about Moreno. They just decided to do something about the manuscript and hired me today. He called again today and some junk about my myname and phone number. Who is he?"

"I don't know," he said. "I know a lot about him but I've never seen him and I've never talked to anyone who's seen him. Even Monica's friends here don't know who he is. I know that he's the chief assassin for the Monacan regime, but I can't prove that. I know, but also can't prove that he's killed six or seven people here in New York City. I'm pretty sure that he's the one who kidnapped Dr. Moreno. Now that you tell me he's back in the city he's probably

DOROTHY DIX

Bachelor's Too Good to Waste on One Gal

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a young man who has been going with several girls. Since I'm 28 now, I think it's about time I married and settled down, but I can't decide which girl to take. I've narrowed the field to five. I love them all in different ways. Maybe I just like variety. How can I decide among them?
ROMANTIC

Dear Romantic: I guess you were cut out to stay single and make many girls happy, rather than to get married and make one girl miserable. Don't marry any one girl while you're still intrigued by others. Many men never make a husband material. Apparently you are one of them. Be the perennial bachelor, the ever-ready extra man.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My parents won't make my younger sister do anything such as picking up her clothes or making her bed. They say she has all the programs on TV she wants. I have no choice.

Dear Ginny: What are your folks raising? A junior grade juvenile delinquent? If they can't do anything with your spoiled sister now, the authorities may have to do something about her later. Can't your parents read? It's all most impossible to pick up printed matter today without reading a warning against such goings-on. Of course, you can't do anything about the situation except perhaps clip one of these articles and display it prominently in the living room.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My steady has just joined the Navy for four long years. He has given me a friendship ring, hope chest and many other beautiful things but no engagement ring. He wants me to wait for him until his hitch is over, then we'll be married. If he really loved me, don't you think he'd buy me a diamond before he left rather than when he comes home on furlough? Do you advise me to wait four years? Or forget about him?
RENEE

Dear Renee: Are you more concerned with the diamond or the boy? Except in cases of complete, mutual devotion, I always think it unwise for a girl to pledge herself to "four long years of waiting." In your case it would be more than unwise because you certainly lack the deep love that would make the waiting period bearable. Give back the handsome gifts, and put yourself in circulation.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a divorcé with three children and have been going with a man who is separated from his wife. He treats the children and me very well but sometimes goes back to his wife's house for a few days. I realize he should visit his children but can't see why he stays there.

Dear D. A.: Obviously this man is not for you. He belongs with his wife and apparently he rather likes to be there. If you want to do a really good deed, encourage him to go back to his family. Certainly, you'll never find happiness with him.

sleek man from New York City. The passenger was taken onto the plane in a stretcher. The plane stopped in Miami and took on more gas and then flew to Puerto Torcido.

"Interesting," I said. "A few days after making the trip, the American pilot was killed in a personal fight. The man who killed him, Alberto de la Garra, was arrested and two days later committed suicide in his cell."

"All tied up," I said. "Gilt wrapped," he grunted. "When the Generalissimo was questioned about Moreno he said it was a problem of the New York City police. More recently he's heard some people here to solve the case just to prove that he's innocent. But you can be sure that he had everything concealed before hiring them. For my money, Milo, Dr. Moreno, alive or dead, is in the Monacan Republic. And so is his book."

He pulled his phone over and dialed a number. After a minute, he said, "This is Lieutenant Rockland. Will you call me back?" Then he hung up.

"What was that for?" I asked. "They're being careful. They won't talk unless they're certain it's me and the only way they can be sure is when they call me themselves."

The phone rang. He picked up the receiver and said hello. Then he told whoever was on the other end about me and that I wanted to talk to them. He listened for a minute, then said, "Fine. Then, he'll be there at about eight tonight. Yes, I'll tell him. Goodbye." He hung up and looked at me. "They'll expect you. You speak Spanish, don't you?"

"Yeah," I said. "They all speak English, but you'll probably need the Spanish when you get down there. In the meantime, when you go there tonight, there's a sentence to identify yourself with."

"What?"

"Dichosos los ojos que lo ven a usted."

"Happy are the eyes that see you," I repeated.

"Just a password," he said with a shrug. "Okay, good luck, Milo. Let me know if there's anything I can do."

"Thanks, Johnny."

"If you run into El Nariz," he said, "you'd better be quick with that gun, boy. And pull the trigger once for me."

I said I would, and left. I took a cab to Sheridan Square and ate at a restaurant on Commerce Street.

Mrs. Moreno lived over by Washington Square. I walked through Waverly Place to his Square and then started searching for her number. I found it and pressed the bell beneath her name. The buzzer answered and I went in and walked up the two flights, pressed another button beside the door.

The door opened a bare three inches and a man looked out. His was small and dark with a hunted look in his eyes.

"Dichosos los ojos que lo ven a usted," I said, feeling like a character in a spy novel.

"Senor March?" he asked. "Yes," I said.

He opened the door wider. "Please come in."

I stepped inside. He closed the door and bolted it and then turned to me. "You must pardon all this," he said with a light little smile, "but we have learned to be careful. I am Federico Laragosa. I was a very good friend of Dr. Moreno's."

We shook hands.

He led the way through the apartment to another room. In it was another man, a big, beetle-browed man and a little woman with a beautiful dark face beneath white hair.

"Senora Moreno," the first man said. "This is Senor March, who has the insurance company. And Senor Alberto de la Garra, another friend of Dr. Moreno's."

They both murmured something and I shook hands with the second man.

FOR ROAD WORK — Sen. Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) has proposed that the nation's highway construction program be about doubled this year as an anti-recession measure. Gore, chairman of the Senate Roads subcommittee, said he will press for such legislation before Easter. The present plan calls for work this year on 1.2 billion dollars worth of contracts on the 41,000-mile network of interstate superhighways.

NO TYPE — One of the hottest personalities on Hollywood's song horizon is 22-year-old Johnny Mathis, unknown a year and a half ago except to a coterie of Mathis fans who jammed a small San Francisco nightclub to hear him. Columbia issued a record of his jazz songs — and typed him as a jazz singer. Johnny squawked that he could sing anything and proved it with a tender ballad in the movie "Lizzie." Now they're talking about Johnny in terms of Nat King Cole and Frank Sinatra.

Showing at the Dixie Drive-In

Mamie Van Doren does her torrid "Slip Dance" in a scene from "Untamed Youth", showing at the Dixie Drive-In tonight and Sunday night. Also starred are Lorie Nelson and John Russell with music by Les Baxter and his orchestra. Two other Rock 'N' Roll hits are at the Drive-In this weekend: "Rock, Pretty Baby" with Sal Mineo and "Dance With Me Henry", with Abbott and Costello.

Tues. - Wed. - Thurs. at Saenger

June Allison and Rossano Brazzi are shown in a tender moment from "Interlude", second half of an outstanding double feature at the Saenger Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Wreck Injuries Fatal to Man

MARIANNA, Ark. — A 21-year old man was fatally injured yesterday in the collision of an auto mobile and a school bus near Marianna. Another man was injured seriously.

No one in the Negro school bus was hurt.

Tommy Bosnick of the Oak Forest Community near here died at a Memphis hospital last night. Carl Schneider, 19, of Marianna was in critical condition at the same hospital.

Dan Johnson, 20, of Marianna was in good condition at a hospital here.

Sheriff Courtney Langston said the three men were riding in a car driven by Bosnick. The officer said the automobile ran into the rear of the bus on U.S. Highway 70 about 10 miles east of Marianna.

The bus, carrying about 10 Negro children, had pulled onto the highway from a rural road when the accident occurred.

Bosnick was expected to marry in about two weeks.

TICKET RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The San Francisco Forty-Niners of the National Football League report an all-time record of 30,400 season tickets have been sold in advance for the 1958 season. The previous club high of 20,737 was set last year.

Razorbacks Scrimmage Tonight

RAZORBACKS — BUT
LITTLE ROCK — There's only one sure thing about the University of Arkansas intrasquad football game at War Memorial Stadium tonight: The Razorbacks will win.

Otherwise, multiple uncertainties surround the clash, the second time in a week Coach Frank Broyles has split his forces and sent them banging helmets for the sake of practice—and the fans.

Question mark No. 1 is the weather. The forecast calls for showers, but the weather bureau says the rain probably will be over by game time.

Heavy downpours forced a sudden switch in last week's game from here to Fayetteville. But Broyles says today's game is in Little Rock, come what may.

Question mark No. 2 is the expected attendance. Pick any number between 5,000 and 20,000 and you've got a logical bet.

This third question, and to avid Razorback followers by far the most important, concerns the Hogs' new offense. Broyles has spent most of the spring practice session switching from the split-T to the multiple offense.

"We need game contact in the worst way," Broyles said after winding up drills yesterday. "We've got to find out which of the boys are Saturday players."

Last Saturday's line-ups, which produced a 26-18 victory for the Red team, will be modified only slightly for tonight's game.

The left side of the White team will get Steve Butler of Arkansas City, Kan., at end and Leroy Mills of Memphis at tackle. Fort Smith's Jarrell Williams will move in at the starting right halfback slot.

The Red team will line up the same except that Freddy Akers of Fayetteville will start at left half and Joe Paul Akers of Fort Smith will start at fullback.

"The squad of 74 players was scheduled to leave Fayetteville at noon today."

Here are the line-ups announced by Broyles:

RED TEAM—LE, Billy Tramm, Wilson; LT, Billy Michael, Fayetteville; LG, Billy Gibbow, Fayetteville; C, Wayne Harris, El Dorado; RG, Bill Luplow, Parkin; RT, Edgar Shanks, Fayetteville; RE, Buddy Reuter, El Dorado; QB, Jim Monroe, Texarkana, Tex.; LH, Freddy Akers, Fayetteville; RH, Don Horton, DeWitt; FB, Joe Paul Akers, Fort Smith.

Thought for the day
A Special Tribute To All Mothers

Sunday, May 11, has been set aside for observance of Mother's Day. Each second Sunday in May in the United States is when mothers are honored in different ways. This idea was promoted by Miss Anna Jarvis in 1907 and a year later Philadelphia, Pa. became the first city to adopt her suggestion.

All the respect and honor that is due Mothers should be done on Mother's Day alone, but should be done every day. The poem below is an expression of our feelings toward mothers:

God took the sunshine from the skies
And made the lovelight in your eyes,
He gave you breath and with his love,
Made yours divine, but best of all,
He made you mine.

OUTDOORS with John Alden Knight

Back in 1948, aside from the South-Floridians not very many people about this country of ours knew very much about the Florida Keys or paid much attention to them. Then some folks went out and caught some bonefish on fly rod tackle. The word spread and soon, thanks to the outdoor writers of the country, everybody wanted to catch a bonefish.

Of course, most folks knew about tarpon, but the place to catch those was on the west coast over at Saint Pete and Sarasota or down in the Ten Thousand Islands around Everglades City or Shark River. Once the boys started coming to the Keys and the supply of guides reached adequate numbers, it didn't take long to learn that some of the finest tarpon fishing was to be had in Florida Bay which, as you know, is an integral part of the Keys.

Extending slantwise across Florida Bay is a shallow bar called Cross Bank. One end of Cross Bank is at Plantation Key, about 50 yards from the Hollenbeck boys' dock at their old camp Little Rock. We would start the day's fishing there, not even starting the motor, and all day long we would be casting to school after school of bonefish, now and then taking time out to pick up a redfish or a snook in the numerous pot holes and channels along the way.

Again, we would cruise up around Manatee Key, Black Betsy, Crocodile, Haulover, etc., and find redfish, snook, sea trout and now and then bonefish, with an odd tarpon here and there. All this, mind you, in January and February, notoriously the worst fishing months of the year.

To the east of Key Largo, extending from Garden Cove to below Rock Harbor (now called Key Largo) lies Julia Island. The outside or ocean side of Julia Island is shallow with hard sand bottom, ideal for wading. To the north of Garden Cove were many fine white-sand beaches, firm under foot.

When the skies were clear and the weather sunny, again in January or February, we could find all the bonefish a man could ask for, feeding on these shallows on the Atlantic side of the keys. Moreover, there was little or no boat travel and the fish were not disturbed. Truly it was a fly-fisherman's paradise.

Then the real-estate boys pricked up their ears and decided to cash in on this unprecedented and (more important) free publicity campaign which made the bonefish a household word in the homes of the nation's anglers. They moved in to pick up, at astonishingly low rates, this acreage of mangrove, coral rock, sand and water. Then they began their "improvements."

They knocked down the jungle and burned the huge piles of accumulated brush. They leveled off the land, what there was of it. They dredged up the offshore bonefish flats and dumped the accumulated gunk of sand, mud, shells and salt water in among the mangroves to make more land. They built jetties which pushed the centuries-old bonefish migration trails farther out into the ocean. The noise of the bulldozer, the power shovel, the drag bucket and the dredge was (and still is) loud in the land.

For two days in early March of this year, Perry Davis and I cruised the old fishing grounds around Black Betsy, Crocodile, Haulover, Manatee Key and the country northwest of Cross Bank. We cast the channels and the old pot holes; we fished the familiar shore lines searching the dark waters under the mangroves.

In all of those two days, fishing only the familiar hot spots, we saw four—exactly four-fish, small tarpons, obviously newcomers, making their way through a shallow channel. Several miles of the good bonefish country of Cross Bank showed not a single bonefish. Colonel C. M. O'Connell, who knows more about bonefish on the Atlantic side of the Keys than any man here, and that includes all of the guides, arrived in Key Largo a few days before January 1, 1958, on his excursions, which have been many, wading such beaches as still remain "unimproved." He has seen four bonefish of which he caught and released two.

To be sure, we still have the migrants—tarpons, snook, redfish trout and bonefish—which come from the south as the weather gets warmer and spawning season arrives. But the resident fish, the "year-round fish," as the local boys call them, simply are not here.

Undoubtedly the abnormally cold weather of last February had its effect on the fishing. Warm water fish cannot live for long in 50-degree water and there can be no question that the fish of the shallow "back country" moved to deep water as a matter of survival. But what of last year and the year before that? Then we had only the usual short cold spells and the fishing was just as bad.

There is no getting away from the fact that civilization and wild life do not live happily together. Ask any of the old Florida Keys guides and he will tell you what I say here. These fish have not been caught out of the hundreds of square miles of Florida Bay and the Atlantic shore line. Constant disturbance—that's right, outboard motors, hundreds of them—has at last had its predicted effect. The resident game fish have moved elsewhere.

The world moves and there is no way to stand in the path of progress. Just the same, it is disappointing to see what once was superlative fishing degenerate into practically no fishing at all. And speaking of fishing, that reminds me that I'd better knock this off and get some rest. The tarpon are in over around Flamingo, and we want to leave the dock at an early hour.

On the basis of official release records from the Saltfish Conservation Club of the Palm Beaches, one authority claims that, based on the spawning habits of this species, there are now more than 800,000 saltfish of two years of age and six feet in length swimming in the Gulf Stream that would not be there if it were not for the anglers who released the astounding total of 9,000 saltfish since the club's program began.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

Saltfish Tags Prove Conservation By AL McCLANE Fishing Editor

The tagging of marine gamefish has always been frustrating to researchers, not only because there are so many fish in the ocean living in vast expanses of water, but also because science hasn't come up with the perfect tag yet.

The latest, a variously designed and angled identification disc, often falls off the fish or simply corrodes and disappears. These tagged Atlantic saltfish have been recovered by sports fishermen in recent years, however, and their capture illustrates three different points that conservationists here-fore held as gospel even without the proof.

A saltfish tagged off Stuart, Fla., was boated off Boyton, Ind., 26 months later. This would indicate that big game fish can be released after being caught without permanent injury. Another saltfish caught and tagged in the same area, was boated again just 90 minutes later by still another angler. This would substantiate that saltfish not only recuperate quickly, but their release assures somebody else of having some fun.

The third saltfish was caught off the coast of Texas and boated in Florida 433 days later after traveling some 900 miles. This gives credence to the belief that conservation of particular species be widespread and not just practiced locally.

On the basis of official release records from the Saltfish Conservation Club of the Palm Beaches, one authority claims that, based on the spawning habits of this species, there are now more than 800,000 saltfish of two years of age and six feet in length swimming in the Gulf Stream that would not be there if it were not for the anglers who released the astounding total of 9,000 saltfish since the club's program began.

GHOST RIDES AGAIN—Todd Andrews, who plays Col. John Mosby, the Civil War rebel leader in "The Gray Ghost" TV series, recently returned from a tour of the South. In Nashville, an old caddy who had watched The Ghost chasing Yankee soldiers all over the TV screen, approached him and asked, "Son, how come we lost the war?"

BEAT THE ODDS—When Bing Russell loaded his family of four in a beat-up jalopy and headed for Hollywood, he "didn't even know where Hollywood was." And even more important, he didn't know the odds against a newcomer, starting from scratch. So, in less than four years he has appeared in 10 movies and 25 TV shows. This ex-minor league ballplayer is now a big league featured player who grossed $50,000 last year.

NEW CANCER CLUE?—Dr. S. E. Luria, University of Illinois virus expert, proposes a new theory as to the origin of cancer: a cancer-causing virus becomes a gene, one of the factors of heredity. The "misinformation" bred right into the cell is perpetuated and cancer eventually results. Experiments at California Institute of Technology give tentative confirmation to the supposition.

GRIN AND BEAR IT—Although the pun was not intended, it nevertheless emerged as it premeditated when the Batesville (Ark.) City Council recently opened a new street. The new street—christened Gwyn Street—crosses Bearett Street. Both the names of Gwyn and Bearett are those of local residents.

"Is there any grass in the park with no 'keep off' sign? We don't want to launch a moon rocket off the sidewalk!"

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

"Of course we have something in common—neither of us has a date for the spring dance!"

"REMEMBER, YOU HAVE TO FOLLOW DEFINITE PROCEDURE IF YOU'RE QUITTING, SCOBEE!"

"YOU WRITE A LETTER OF REGISTRATION IN TRIPLICATE AND BRING IT TO ME, AND—"

"AND THEN I—NOW, HOLD ON, SCOBEE!"

"IT'S NO USE—IT ALWAYS ENDS UP LIKE THIS!"

"YOU'RE OUT! AND THE BLOS GO DOWN IN THE LAST OF THE EIGHTH!"

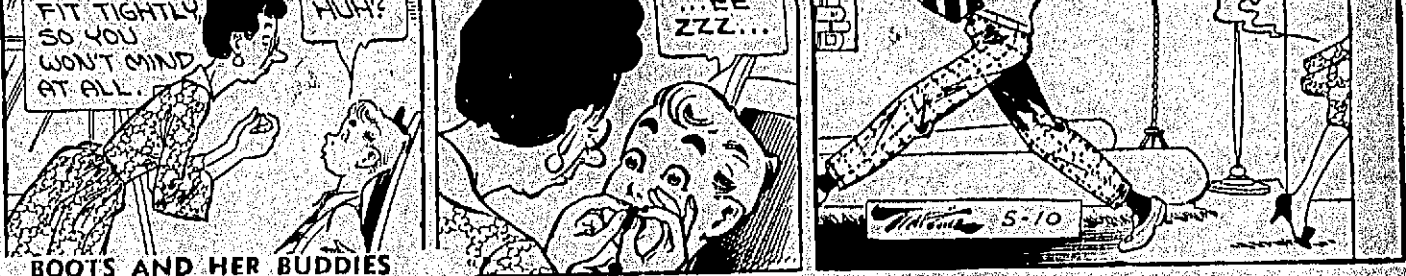

"WHASSA MATTER, OOOO! Y'LOSIN' CONFIDENCE IN ME OR SLEEPIN'?"

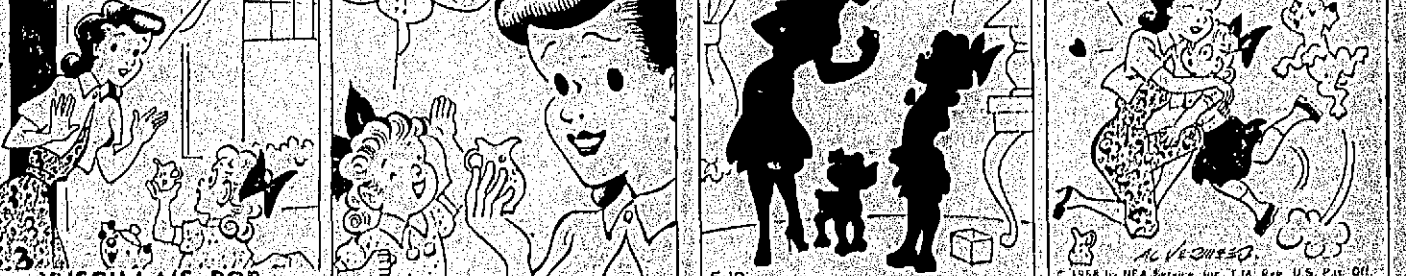

"LOOK, OOP! I ALWAYS FIGURED YOU FOR A HEP GUY! DON'T YOU KNOW THERE IS A CROWD?"

"NOW BE A GOOD LAD AND YOUR HOOP GOME WHERE ELSE!"

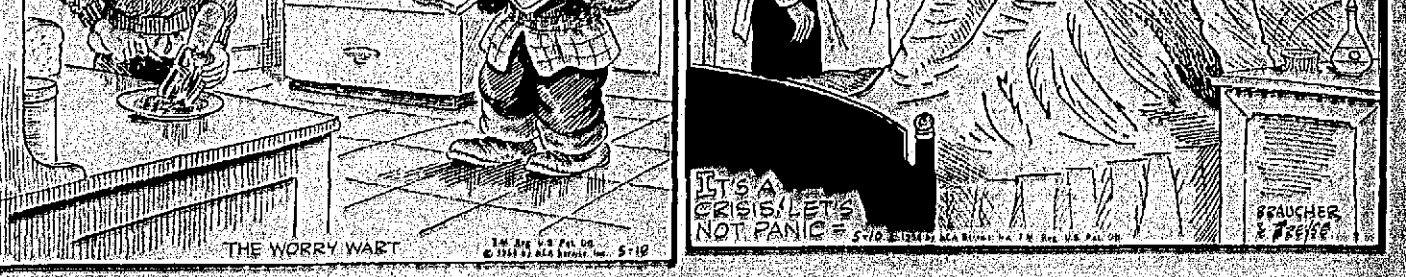

"A SECOND FLOOR LIGHT WENT ON THAT MUST BE HER APARTMENT!"

"I'D LIKE TO FIND OUT IF THEY ARE HOLDING DAVE HERE, BEFORE ANYTHING TIPS HER OFF THAT I'M ON HER TRAIL!"

"THE DOORS OPEN TO THE LIGHTED ROOM, MAYBE WUP!"

"I BAKED TWO COCONUT CAKES SO WE COULD TAKE ONE OVER TO THE BUMSTEADS."

"THAT'S VERY THOUGHTFUL AND NEIGHBORLY, DEAR."

"WELL, TAKE YOURS."

"THOSE BUMSTEADS CAN DRIVE YOU CRAZY."

"GOOD! IT WILL BE OF THE UTMOST BENEFIT TO AMARANTHA IN TERMS OF PSYCHIC REASSURANCE!"

"THESE ARE DUMMY DENTAL BRACES, DEVID! THEY DON'T FIT TIGHTLY, SO YOU WON'T CHIN AT ALL."

"EXACTLY! YOU'LL SOON GET USED TO THEM!"

"HUH?"

"UP IEE ZZZ..."

"FOR MOTHER'S DAY? WHY PRISCILLA, IT'S LOVELY!"

"IT COST A WHOLE QUARTER BUT I KNOW YOU LIKE ANTIQUES."

"ANTIQUE? YOU MEAN IT'S AN ANTIQUE?"

"WELL, NO, NOT YET."

"BUT IT WILL BE IF WE KEEP IT LONG ENOUGH!"

"OUT OUR WAY"

"THERE'S NO USE HANGING AROUND—ALL YOU'RE GONNA GET IS THE ONE GARDEN! THE REST ARE FOR SUPPER!"

"I'M JUST MAKING SURE WHERE IT IS SO I WON'T BE LOOKING FORWARD TO IT AFTER I'M PAST IT!"

"GREAT CAESAR, MARTHA! IT'S IT! AMBITION, BEING CHAINED TO THE GALLEY OARS BY A HEN-PECKING—AH-ER—MY WORD! IT'S 9:15! HIGH TIME I RESTERRED MYSELF—UM-HAK!"

"UP, LORD SNOOZER! IT'S THE HONEY SEASON AND YOU'RE THE ONLY DRONE IN THE HIVE! WHY CAN'T YOU CATCH THE AMBITION OF THAT ENERGETIC ME GALL, HUSTLING OUT AT 5:30? I'M CLEANING HOUSE AND YOU'RE THE FIRST BARREL OF RUBBISH TO GO!"

"IT'S A CRISIS! LET'S NOT PANIC!"

"CHUG SPOT"

"WOULDN'T YA KNOW IT! I'M OUTA GAS!"

"G-GOOD! I'LL REST HERE AFTER ALL THAT BUNNY GOT A BETTER IDEA"

Her Day

— Mother's Day. The world voted a day in her honor and Heaven was glad.

It is a meager tribute that we should pause once a year... the second Sunday in May... to do her honor. She gave you life and love but what have you given her? Life will not change her love nor will death conquer it. She is the soaring cloud of radiant rapture that lifts us to new attempts and the strength we need to see us through.

Her God would be pleased to see her in church this Mother's Day... won't you take her to God's House?
